Nicole,

As an initial matter, we would like to remind you of Defendants' continued obligation to produce any records obtained in response to Defendants' subpoenas and HIPAA requests as they are generated/provided to Defendants. Your comment about Defendants not being obligated to produce T-Mobile's response to your subpoena is inaccurate and Defendants' withholding such records is troubling.

To date no records at all have been produced in response to the various subpoenas Defendants issued to T-Mobile and Plaintiff's prior law firm – Mallilo and Grossman. Likewise, Defendants have yet to produce any records which they presumably received in response to the HIPAA forms which Plaintiff executed.

Your note about AT&T being in possession of the records you seek is not accurate. Since you will not provide the communications you are legally obligated to provide to us, we have reached out directly to both carriers. We expect a response from them on Monday and will confer with the client and respond to your request promptly thereafter – likely by end of day on Tuesday.

Best,
Innessa

Hi Nicole, the carriers contacted me yesterday during the hearing but the employees had already left by the time I tried to call them back afterwards. I tried to contact them again today but could not get through. They typically call back within 24 hours so I expect a call back tomorrow. I will let you know.

Thank you,
Innessa
